Total Profit Over 3 Months = 382 pips

Using leverage at .25%, profit equates to $13 per pip on a $100,000 position, which would only expose $250 of your own money. In the past 3 months you would have made 13 x 382 pips = $4,966.

Another example would be...

Using leverage at .25%, profit equates to $130 per pip on a $1,000,000 position, which would only expose $2500 of your own money. In the past 3 months you would have made 130 x 382 pips = $49,660.

*A pip is 1 decimal movement in a direction up or down on a currency fluctuation. i.e NZD USD moves from 0.7899 to 0.7900 is a 1 pip movement. Depending on whether you have bought or sold the currency, you will make or lose money on pip movements.

The above examples include the use of leverage for illustrative purposes only. No advice on the use of leverage is provided. If you require advice on the use of leverage or any other financial products, then we suggest that you consult with an authorised financial adviser.

Little bit hesitant at first and found it hard to believe that I could double my money with just a 5 minute process, however it is very true that the currency market providing you know what you are doing can be incredibly lucrative. I have been trading a little over 1 year now and have found the text alerting system has allowed me to get on with my everyday life and still make money from another source.
